Article III, Norway Town Warrant.

A good citizens said to us the other morning:

"I hav'n't heard a man speak favorably of article 3 of the town warrant. Every one who has expressed themselves are opposed to it. I'm surprised. I don't understand it. There is no good reason why it should not be adopted. My way of thinking it is exactly what ought to be and it should have been adopted years ago. I'm glad you had the article put in. When the merits of it are understood it will be adopted. Any town the size of this should have a continuous board of officers and not be subject to sweeping changes as has been in the past. Elect one Selectman each year for a term of three years and town affairs will be better and more economically managed. No doubt of it. That's the experience of every town that has adopted the continuous-board-plan in the State."

This is correct look it up.

County Commissioners are chosen, one each year for six years. Why?

School Committees one each year for three years. Why?

Trustees of Norway Public Library the same. Why?

There is a reason. Think it over. Look it up. Act intelligently and the way you feel is for your own interests disregarding of course, the wail of the few who want "to play politics" at the expenses of the tax payers.

Record of complete changes of the Norway Municipal officers:—

1882 Brown, Danforth and Frost.
1883 Bearce, Oxnard and Noble.
1886 Sanborn, Tucker, Gibson.
1888 Holt, Wyman and Millett.
1889 Sanborn, Perry and Flint.
1891 Smith, Oxnard and Johnson.
1894 Crooker, Ryerson and Witt,
1900 Sanborn, Jackson and Brown.
1903 Stearns, Witt and Millett.
1906 Sanborn, Robbins and Greenleaf.
1909 Holmes, Dunn and Millett.

We have withstood these ten compete changes and their attending mistakes in the past thirty years. No other than a town business could stand it.

Are we to continue on indiffinitly?

Lets change over this year. Commence right. Vote to adopt Article III and the man receiving the greatest number of vote be elected for three years; the next lagest for two years and the smallest number of votes for one.

The Selectmen choose their own chairman. The town does not do it. At least its not required to do it.

The way is easy if you wish to do it.

This is right. Consider it and vote intilligently.

Freeland Howe Badly Injured.

Freeland Howe fell Tuesday evening and broke a bone in his leg below the hip. He had been spending some time in the office of the Beal's Hotel after supper and started to go home about nine o'clock. He slipped and fell near the steps. W. A. Bicknell, who was near Harriman's store saw him fall and immedately he and others went to his assistence. He was taken to his home a short distance down the street on a stretcher. Physicians did all they could, and his two sons, George R. Howe and Freeland Howe, jr. were with him. His daughter, Mrs. A. E. Morrison of Bangor had been visiting them for a week or more but had gone to Portland and was to return to Bangor the next morning when a telegram recalled her, and Wednesday Mr. Morrison came to Norway. Mr. and Mrs. Howe had boarded at the Beal's Hotel for years and Mr. Howe was familiar with the sidewalks. He was an unusually well and active man for a man of his years, and is one of the oldest and best known business men in Norway, having been successfully engaged in the insurance business many years. He is cared for by a trained nurse, and is said to be resting comfortably.

Norway Municipal Court.

WM. F. JONES, JUDGE.

Friday, Ralph Decoster of Norway was before Judge W. F. Jones charged with the larceny of a pocketbook from his employer, Walter Buck. He pleaded not guilty, and was discharged as the court was not convinced there was sufficient evidence to hold him.

Washington Birthday Social.

The Washington's Brithday social held at the home of Helen and Stella Pike, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church, was a most enjoyable affair. The rooms were decorated with the National colors, while hatchets and cherries were much in evidence. At 6 30 a most excellent supper was served to about 40 guests. Some of the dishes used were of almost priceless value and very rare. They have been in the Pike family for more than 100 years.

The program for the evening, and the supper as well, would have delighted even the immortal George. Readings, recitations, story telling, quotations from patriotic poems and history, the singing of various patriotic songs, all were finely rendered, but by far the most pleasing feature of it all was the original song composed and sung by Rev. B. F. Wentworth. It was greatly appreciated. At the close of the social hour all joined in singing America, and went to their homes, satisfied that they had done their best to help celebrate the birthday of the one, who, when the Nation was young, was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

H. F. Andrews left Saturday night for Iowa.

The Browning Reading Club met Monday evening with Mrs. James Danforth. The roll call was responded to with hymns and their origin. A paper was read by Ellie Swan, written by Mrs. M. C. Ward, entitled "Women of the Bible." Drummond's Story of the Bible was given by Mrs. Margaret Libby. The next meeting will be held with Nellie Booker at her home on Marston street on Monday evening. The roll call will be responded to with current events. The program will consist of reading from history by Nellie Booker, and reading from magazine by Mrs. Jennie Foster.

Banquet and Roll Call at the Methodist Church.

At seven o'clock Wednesday evening, in the vestry of the church, nearly one hundred people sat down to a first class supper. At eight o'clock they entered the auditorium and after a short devotional service the membership of the church was called in alphabetical order. The membership is about one hundred and seventy-five. Eighty members responded either by letter or in person. The traveling being hard, the night cold and windy and there being very much sickness in the society, many of the members were prevented from being present.

The following former pastors sent letters of greeting, viz: Revs. F. C. Rogers, W. B. Eldridge, J. A. Corey, B. F. Fickett, F. W. Smith and C. A. Brooks.

Dr. L. Hall Trufant was elected by the church as Lay Delegate to the annual conference to be held in Lewiston, March 27. Arthur Morgan was elected as alternate. The pastor was invited to return for the fourth year.

Mrs. C. S. Penley.

Mrs. Mary Ann (Bartle) Penley died of pneumonia at 2 o'clock, p. m., Tuesday, Feb. 20th, age 60 years, 11 months, and 11 days.

She was born at Mineral Point, Wisconsin, the daughter of John and Mary Bartle, where she lived for 23 years. She had lived in Norway, 37 years.

Religiously she was a Methodist. She belonged to the Woman's Relief Corps; also the Heywood Club.

She married Charles S. Penley, Jan. 28, 1908 at South Paris. Besides her husband she leaves by former marriage: William N. Judkins, farmer South Paris; John P. Judkins, rural letter carrier, Norway; Theophuils J. Judkins, Bethel, M. V. S; Mary E. Smith, Vineyard Haven, Mass.; Laura E. McLellan, jr., Vineyard Haven, Mass.; Bartholomew B. Judkins, Norway.

Mrs. Penley held the esteem of all her friends, a generous and helpful neighbor, a faithful and loving wife and mother.

The funeral was from her late home on Crockett Ridge, Thursday, Feb. 22, Rev. Merrill C. Ward being the attending clergyman. The singing was by Mrs. C. L. DeCosta and Gladys Keene, accompanied by Mrs. C. S. Akers, "The Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "He Knows It All." The bearers were her sons, William N. Judkins, John P. Judkins, Theophilus J. Judkins and Bartholomew B. Judkins. She was placed in the tomb in Pine Grove. The interment will take place in the spring.

The remaining services will be as follows:—Mar. 3, "The Prayer in the Garden;" Mar. 10, "Strengthened by Angels;" Mar. 17, "Peter's Denial;" Mar. 24, "The Trial of Jesus;" Mar. 31, "The Cross and Crown;" April 7, Easter, "The Life after Death."

The Grange will furnish dinner at their hall on town meeting day. The committee are the ladies whose names begin with E, F, G, and H. They will furnish the beans, brownbread, butter and pickles, and wish those not on the committee to send in pies, cakes, doughnuts and milk.

On March second, at the Brown-house hall,
There is to be a leap year ball;
Now boys, don't get too excited,
The girls will see that you are all invited;
We know with joy your hearts will thrill
For you see, the girls will foot the bill.
And when you go down to eat oyster stew,
The girl is the one that will pay for two;
Embrace this chance, for when it is o'er
You may not have another for four years more.

SOUTH PARIS.

BRYANT POND.

Charles H. Buck.

Charles H. Buck of North Woodstock died Feb. 20th from the effects of a paralytic shock. Mr. Buck was one of the active, smart old men of the town, and was one of the veterans of the Civil War. He was born in Hamlin's Grant 82 years ago. His parents were John and Hannah Cummings Buck, who were residents of the plantation for many years.

Mr. Buck was twice married and leaves a widow and two children.

He enlisted in the army from the quota of Rumford and was mustered into Co. B. 3d Me. Vol. July 17, 1863 and was discharged at Augusta, June 28, 1864. He then re-enlisted in the 17th Me. Infantry under Col. Thomas A. Roberts of Portland. Later he was transferred to the 1st Me. Heavey Artillery.

Several of our citizens were in attendance last week at the automobile show. Several purchased cars for the coming coming season.

Woodstock High won from the Hanover town team last Saturday night in a closely contested game, 17 to 15. This was Hanover's last game for the season.

Arthur Davis moved his family from the Allen rent to Paris Hill last week. This rent will be occupied by Stephen Barber of Portland the new clerk in Mr. Allen's store.

WELCHVILLE

"In A Bad Way"

Many a Norway Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
When urinary troubles set in,
Your kidneys are "in a bad way."
Don't delay—use Doan's Kidney Pills.
Here is good evidence of their worth.
J. O. Ripley, blacksmith, Oxford St., South Paris, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and was cured of an attack of kidney trouble. For several months I was feeling quite miserable and there were pains across the small of my back. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and unnatural. I finally procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had used them a short time the pains disappeared and my kidneys caused me no further trouble." (Statement given July 25, 1908.)

PRAISES DOAN'S AGAIN.

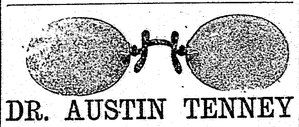

On July 19, 1911, Mr. Ripley said: "I have had very little occasion to use a kidney remedy since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1908. I am constantly recommending this remedy to other kidney sufferers." 8-9

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Mrs. Belle Swallow and daughter, who spent the winter at East Sumner, came to her home the 17th. She was gladly welcomed by her neighbors.

In the Fashion.

The wearied searcher for apartments in New York had ended his hunt. When he announced the result to a friend he delivered himself of this epigram:

"There are just two kinds of apartments in New York, those you can't afford to live in and those you wouldn't live in anyhow."

"What did you do?" asked the friend.

"Oh," said the searcher's wife, "we followed New York fashion and took one we couldn't afford to live in."—New York Sun.

Can't Cure Catarrh.

Stomach Dosing, Sprays and Douches Have All Failed.

There is only one way to cure catarrh. Reach the raw, tender, inflamed membrane that is infested with catarrh germs, and destroy the germs.

You can't reach the nooks and crevices with liquid preparations—there is only one way—breathe the antiseptic germ killing air of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) directly over the infested parts.

HYOMEI contains no opium, cocaine or other harmful drugs, it is made of Australian eucalyptus, thymol and other Listerian antiseptics. It is guaranteed to end the misery of catarrh, asthma, croup and bronchitis, or money back.

Ask Frank Kimball, proprietor of The Noyes Drug Store, about the HYOMEI outfit today. He sells it for only $1.00 and guarantees it. 9&11

WINTER WORK FOR THE BOY.

Way to Keep Him on the Farm Is to Make It Profitable For Him.

Many farmers who do not feel able to pay their sons very high wages in spring and summer and who feel that the boys really do not earn more than $10 or $12 a month with their board have arranged matters so that the young men can in the winter make up for the apparently low wages of summer and make some money without taking it out of the family purses. Many men would like to send their sons to college and then set them up on farms of their own, but they are not financially able to do so, and even if they were it might be the worst thing possible for the boys. The best plan, as many fathers have found out, is to help the boy to help himself and keep him so busy and with so much money flowing into his pocket as to drive out all thoughts of deserting the farm, says the Country Gentleman.

Some may have taken up the plan of allowing their boys to take in flocks of sheep on shares, merely going security for them when necessary, but putting them beyond this entirely on their own resources. There is no surer way of building up a rundown farm or one not large enough to support much stock than by getting on a lot of sheep as winter boarders. The fertility counts year by year, and while the boy is kept out of mischief the farm is steadily growing in value.

Then there are other fathers who encourage the boys to take up winter work in the shape of teaching the district school, working in the barn of a neighbor who has much stock and little help to take care of it, buying poultry for some dealer or any one of a dozen occupations that pay fairly well for a young man's time. Teaching the district school leaves little time to help with the farm chores, but the farmer is relieved of the worry of the boy wanting to leave the farm, and school will be out in the spring in time for the active farm work, so that what the boy makes is almost clear money.

Boarding town horses is another industry open to boys and one that is not hard work. The feed must be bought and the horses given regular and intelligent care, but it doesn't take very long to look after a dozen horses and keep them in good condition. There is always the chicken business to fall back on, and an enterprising lad can put in a winter flock that will more than pay for itself in eggs and then can sell the hens for almost as much as they cost when spring comes. By picking up a few hens here and a few there at odd moments he can get a respectable flock and have a nice basket of eggs to market each week from the last of January until May.

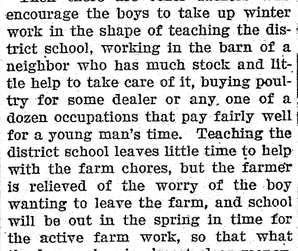

It is easy to keep boys busy in winter on any farm, but not always easy to make the time profitable for them. It takes real courage on the part of the average father to give the son his whole time and board him free when he might be cleaning up the farm or helping him make money.

NOW'S THE TIME.

Now is a good time to plan next year's crops and prepare for carrying out your plans. Have your tools and seed all ready to use when the soil is fit to work. Test your seed corn, so you will not have to waste your time in the spring to do it.

With the Feathered Folk.

If possible, give the turkeys all the sweet milk they can possibly drink.

Excellent market geese can be bred by crossing African or China on Toulouse.

Beans are highly nitrogenous and make an excellent food for the fowls. So also are peas and will be relished by the chickens as a change in their diet.

In growing cockerels and pullets for breeding stock the feed given should be different from that given for market poultry. As soon as the sexes can be fully determined they should be separated and the cockerels fed a greater allowance than the pullets.

The modern method of gold beating was devised at Nuremburg, Bavaria, in the year 1150.

BUNGALOW FOR MOUNTAIN SITE.

Design 2T, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FLOOR PLAN.

This large bungalow represents all the space that would be contained in a good sized two story house. An immense living room in the center, three large chambers, all of which have closets; bathroom is large and light and well arranged. Dining room and living room are opened together by sliding doors. Dining room has built-in china closet, opening into kitchen. There is also a large bay projecting on the side of the dining room, thus making a very pleasant room of the same. Kitchen has built-in cupboard, with entry in rear of same, with broom closet, refrigerator, etc., leading out on the porch. There can be three large chambers finished in the third story if desired by the owner, but this is not figured in at the price given. This house can be built, exclusive of heating and plumbing, for $5,100. Size, forty-seven feet wide and thirty-three feet deep over the main part. There is a basement under the entire building; first story ceiling, ten feet high; second story to be made eight or eight and a half feet. The first story is finished throughout, except the chambers, in red oak, birch or Washington fir. Chambers are finished in birch or pine to enamel. The walls of the kitchen and bathroom are blocked off in small blocks to represent tile four feet six inches high, painted with two coats of flat white paint and finished with two coats of enamel, making a very serviceable and sanitary wall finish for these rooms.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply a copy of Saxton's book of plans entitled "American Dwellings." The book contains 240 new and up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

Good Form

Announcing an Engagement.

Polly declared she must have some unusual way of announcing her engagement, so after much careful thought this was evolved: The twenty special friends were asked for a thimble party, and there was nothing doing until refreshments were served. Then each guest found a little envelope on the plate, and the hostess explained that inside there would be found a jumbled lot of letters, that the letters of each color would spell one word, and there was just one word in each envelope, and all were the same color in each envelope, so each one made their word, and the light gradually dawned as the story was told by the guests putting their words together. It was great fun and ended the afternoon in a most happy manner, as the little bride elect was a great favorite, and she was fairly beaming when all began to offer good wishes and wanted to know "all about it."

Good Form In Table Setting.

At luncheon, tea or supper a small plate and knife are placed beside the larger one. On this are placed the bread and butter, which should be spread in small portions of a mouthful.

The dinner roll is taken from the napkin and laid on the cloth at the right side of the plate.

Cake may be eaten after the same manner as bread, broken off in mouthfuls and conveyed to the mouth by the fingers or with a fork. The latter is preferable, especially in the case of a moist cake or one with a soft filling.

Corn on the cob is a finger food, requiring considerable skill to dispose of with anything resembling grace.

An orange, like corn on the cob, requires skillful handling. A good way is to cut it in quarters, peel each quarter, split them again in half and press out the seeds, thus achieving a comfortable mouthful.

Restaurant Etiquette.

Those who have dined in restaurants or hotels habitually will find that they have fallen into many unpleasant little ways, permissible possibly toward a landlord, but not toward a hostess. They feel that they have the privilege both to criticise openly and to imply criticism either of the food itself or of the way in which it is served. Women who cherish the ambition of making poor, forlorn habitues of hotels happy with "home cooking" have their hopes dashed by this ungracious habit. Let those, too, who have fallen into the habit of dipping a spoon or fork into a glass of water at a restaurant and then wiping it on a napkin before using it beware of those moments when they become deeply absorbed in conversation at the house of a friend or even at the home table. Could any habit be more insulting to a hostess?—Harper's Bazar.

Milady's Letters.

Plain white or gray sheets, folded once into envelopes, and black ink are the approved materials for social correspondence. It is not a good plan to use a pronounced type of stationery. The plain and simple varieties are always in the best taste. White, gray or gray blue banknote, line or cream laid papers, all severely plain, are the only varieties a man can use in correspondence, and a woman must be even more particular.

Crests, monograms and addresses may be engraved, stamped or embossed on the stationery of both men and women. Fads in stationery are sometimes of a pronounced type, but as a rule they last only a short time and are taken up by few people only. In the event of a monogram on the paper it is a good plan to have the letter in very small type.

A Word to the Debutante.

The formal affair which introduces a young girl to society follows closely the form of an afternoon tea.

The debutante, gowned with a thought for youth, with flowers on arm, stands with her mother, and usually she asks two or more of her favorite girl friends to receive with her. She dispatches a carriage to bring them to the reception if they have none at their disposal, introduces them to all the callers and entertains them at dinner afterward. Sometimes as an added courtesy she presents each of them with a bouquet to carry during the afternoon, first ascertaining the color of the gown to be worn so that the flowers may be harmonious.

Flowers sent as remembrances by friends and relatives are arranged tastefully about the room.

A Few More Don'ts.

"There are three 'don'ts' which every clergyman could with propriety add as a homily to the wedding ceremony," remarked an unhappy looking married man. "Don't argue, don't bicker, don't nag, and the greatest of these is don't argue, for in the trail of argument troops bickering and a host of other petty, disagreeable traits which lead straight to disaster.

"The habit of arguing over trifles is a dangerous one, yet one that is indulged in by women, and particularly American women. It is not going too far to say that the American woman is more given to argument than any other. She contracts the habit in the cradle and successfully carries it through life."

Clay Eaters In Africa.

In the colony of upper Senegal and Niger, near a place named Diekuy, exists an edible clay of which the natives are very fond. It is found in a layer between strata of limestone, and a gallery has been driven into the earth for the extraction of the substance. It is not only eaten on the spot, but, broken into pieces a few inches across, is sold to the inhabitants of the surrounding country over a radius of some twenty miles. It is said by French explorers that some natives consume several pounds of this strange food every day. A similar custom is found in the Sudan and in other parts of Africa.—Youth's Companion.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Farm and Garden

IT FINDS MANY USES.

Handy Homemade Torch Which Any Farmer Can Construct.

The Iowa Homestead says the homemade torch herewith illustrated or one similar in construction should find a place on every farm. To make the torch secure a stout can that will hold a pint or more, preferably an old oil can with a handle, drill a hole in the center and place a short piece of one-fourth inch iron pipe in the hole as shown. It should extend to within half an inch of the bottom of the can and project above the top about three or four inches. Place a cap on the top end and drill several very small holes in same. There should be about five holes, with one in the top of the can. Make the holes one thirty-second or one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Fill the pipe with candle wicking and fasten tightly in place. It should be soldered. Fill can about four-fifths full of gasoline and light same by heating the top of can and pipe with a small blaze. If the weather is not too cold this can be done with matches. The heat forms a gas in the can which forces itself up through the wicking and when lighted makes a strong light and very hot blaze.

HANDY HOMEMADE TORCH.

This can be used for many things on the farm. It is sure death to all insect life in the poultry house. Go over all cracks with the blaze and the eggs and nits will be killed as well as the insects. It makes a good light and will withstand a strong breeze. A tap or nut that cannot be otherwise removed will at once come off on being heated with the torch. In short, anything that requires a small and safe heat can be heated or burned with this torch. It is perfectly safe and cannot explode.

The average amount expended to eradicate and control weeds on 129 Wisconsin farms reported amounted to $43, while the total tax on these farms was only $74. The weeds thus were costing the farmer half the amount of his taxes.

SAVE YOUR TREES.

Prevent Killing by Cold by Taking Precautions In Time.

It is commonly supposed that if trees are given a sufficiently moist soil during their growing period their winter condition in this respect is a matter of little importance. As a matter of fact, trees are giving off moisture at all seasons of the year, though to a much less extent, of course, in cold weather. During the warm, sunny days in winter there is considerable loss of moisture through the twigs, and, except in very severe weather, the roots are able to furnish this loss, though the soil about them be frozen. The ability to do this is naturally less if the soil be dry or frozen very hard. In that case the loss of moisture results in a more or less complete drying up of the tissues of the plant, and this often results in the death of the tree.

What is known as root killing may in some instances be due to the immature or unripe condition of the plant when winter begins, but in most cases root killing follows dry seasons.

If the soil has been kept moist by cultivation or mulching the trees are safe, but if the soil is dry it should be thoroughly wet before freezing and then mulched with old straw, chaff or stable manure to prevent drying out The mulch delays freezing, and this in itself is an important item, as it is the long continued frozen state of woody plants that injures them to a fatal degree. A moist soil kept in an unfrozen condition as long as possible is the surest means of preventing winter killing of trees.—American Agriculturist.

AVOID WORRY.

It is asserted that a keen sense of humor will cure any ordinary case of worry. Look at a common housefly through a microscope and it assumes horrible proportions. Magnify your own troubles and what huge dimensions they assume! There is nearly always something funny in every serious situation. Try to see it. The best way to overcome worry is to attack it indirectly.

PARK BUILT ON UNSTABLE SOIL

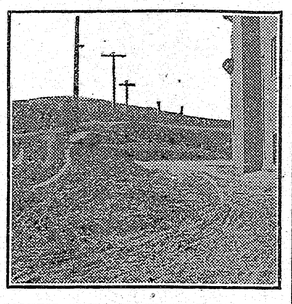

Difficult Task Was Accomplished at Corning, N. Y.

COST SURPRISINGLY LOW.

How a Wonderful Result Was Achieved For $5,000, Whereas Engineers Had Said Grading Alone Would Require $20,000.

In every city or village there are vacant places that could be made attractive and pleasing by proper grading and seeding and planting with shrubs and hardy flowers.

"It was my fortune a few years ago when city engineer," says Robert H. Canfield, "to be called upon to design and build a park on one of the central blocks of the city of Corning, N. Y. This block was a barren hillside. The ground was hardpan and quicksand. The lower side was a steep bluff of over thirty feet in height, from which great masses of quicksand washed down into the street below every spring. A commission had been chartered some twenty-five years ago to improve this block, and after consulting with engineers it was advised that nothing short of $20,000 would be sufficient to do the grading alone. I believed that all this expense was unnecessary and that the ground could be made stable by proper sloping, sodding and draining.

CORNING COURT HOUSE AS IT WAS ORIGINALLY.

"An appropriation of $1,500 was made for the beginning of the work, and this amount was expended the first year in cutting back the hill or bluff to a slope of about two to one and in making parallel ditches about fifteen feet about, into which were laid porous tiles and the ditches filled with gravel, with cobblestones placed on top. The slopes were then covered with a few inches of good earth and sodded, the sods being held by strips of wood and stakes. The following spring the people who had been incredulous were surprised to see the slope remain firm and perfect.

"The second year, with an appropriation of $2,000, the grading of the entire block was finished, and the third year the rest of the grounds were seeded, walks built and trees, shrubs and flowers planted. Paths were graded diagonally across the block so as to give as uniform a grade as possible, and on the upper part two large circles were placed, which were intersected by the diagonal paths and filled with shrubbery and flowers. Between these circles in the center of the park a fountain with a concrete rim was built. Paths connecting the circles and paths were also made from each circle to the center of the adjoining side.

"About 2,000 shrubs, selected for their hardiness as well as for their beauty of foliage and flowers, were planted in groups about the circles and at the intersection of the paths. Some fifty ornamental trees and an equal number of hardy evergreens were irregularly set bordering the paths and scattered upon the lawns.

"The entire cost of this park was $5,000, about one-half of which was expended in grading and ditching. With the exception of somewhat regularly sloping the lower side because of the quicksand formation the park was left practically in its natural rolling shape. The effect is much more satisfactory than if the whole block had been made of uniform slope."

Not What It Seemed.

In the county of Somerset, England, there is a village called Hatch. The clergyman in an adjoining parish was named Duck. One Sunday morning the congregation at the latter place being assembled the curate did not appear. The "clerk" rose and said:

"I hereby give notice that there will be no service today, as Mr. Duck has gone to Hatch."

The Scrap Book

Three Mystic Words.

A young woman of Indianapolis, says the News of that city, had much attention, and one of her admirers from another city was a liberal donor of flowers and sweets, and when possible he came to town to visit her. One day he sent her a five pound box of candy, a dozen American Beauty roses and a telegram announcing that he would be in the city the next Sunday to spend the day with her. In addition to this he sent the following message: "International code—Isle of View."

She had no idea what the three mystic words might signify, and she got out all the code books she could find and finally went to the telegraph office to see if that department had the combination of words and the meaning. The telegraph company could give her no assistance. She thought the words over and over again and began to say them aloud. Suddenly it dawned on her—"I love you."

Not They Who Soar.

Not they who soar, but they who plod
Their rugged way unhelped to God,
Are heroes. They who higher fare
And, flying, fan the upper air
Miss all the toil that hugs the sod.
'Tis they whose backs have felt the rod,
Whose feet have pressed the path unshod,
May smile upon defeated care,
Not they who soar.

High up there are no thorns to prod
Nor bowlders lurking 'neath the clod
To turn the keenness of the share,
For flight is ever free and rare.
But heroes they the soil who've trod,
Not they who soar.
—Paul Laurence Dunbar.

Not Much Mystery.

A youth from the country who was new to the delights of London lodgings recently entered an oil shop and, producing a bottle labeled "Best Unsweetened Gin," asked for a pint of lamp oil.

"Better take the label off in case of accidents, hadn't I?" asked the oil man.

"Don't matter a bit," was the reply; "there's only me and the cat ever go to the cupboard in my room, and I don't mind if I do kill the cat."

"Killed the cat yet?" asked the oilman as the youth was passing the next day.

"No, I ain't," said the youth, with a puzzled look, but there's a bit of mystery somewhere. My landlady has been right queer since last night. She won't open her mouth within yards of a box o' matches, and she smells something awful o' paraffin."

His Nerve Won.

"Marse Henry" Watterson, the famous editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was as original in starting into journalism as in everything that he does and says.

It was just after the war between the states, and Watterson, in the ragged regimentals of a Confederate officer, was casting about for some means of getting a little food in his stomach. He happened to get hold of a copy of the old Louisville Herald, and, after studying it awhile, that peculiar, purposeful look settled over his face. He arose and tramped majestically down to the Herald shop and into the presence of the venerable editor.

"Well, sir!" growled the old man, for he was exceedingly busy.

"You want an editorial writer, and I am the man for the post," said the young soldier, as unabashed as an iceberg.

"Well, who in the—say! Well, who had the unmitigated gall to tell you that we needed an editorial writer, and who in blazes are you, and say, what on earth makes you think we are pining for an editorial writer?" The aged editor paused for breath.

"Humph!" said Watterson as emotionless as a granite block. "Anybody could see it by reading your paper."

He got the job.—Housekeeper.

Overliteral.

In Sir Robert Anderson's book of reminiscences entitled "The Lighter Side of My Official Life" there is a story of a judge who was trying to get the very words of a reported conversation from a person somewhat scantily equipped with humor. The story is good enough to quote.

"Witness," asked the judge, "did the prisoner say, 'I stole the horse?'"

"Oh, no, my lord," the witness replied in a deprecatory tone. "Your lordship's name was never mentioned."

History Repeats Itself.

"That boy will be the death of me some day!" declared the head of the family. "I'm sure I don't know where he gets all his impudence and self assurance—surely not from me. He returned home from school the other day, and, entering my office, he threw his hat on the floor, selected an easy chair, put his feet on my desk, lit a cigarette, inhaled a few puffs, and then, turning languidly to me, he drawled:

"'I say, dad, do you remember the time when you were expelled from school?'

"I did. There was no use denying it, for one day, in a burst of confidence, I had told him some of my escapades as a boy and lived to regret that I had been so indiscreet.

"'Well,' said he, 'history has repeated itself.'

"'What do you mean, you young rascal?' I roared.

"'Oh,' said he easily, 'I've been expelled too. Astonishing, isn't it, dad, how such things will run in a family?'"

THE FRUITS OF CITY PLANNING

Wonderful Results Since the Movement Started.

ITS PROMISING FUTURE.

End of Twentieth Century Will Find the States Dotted With Beauty Spots. Municipalities Rapidly Adopting the Idea.

In talking before the Union of Canadian Municipalities on the subject of "The Twentieth Century City" Henry B. Macfarland said that a city, like a man, is body, mind and spirit. It is more than the individual citizens, for it lives on and is not only a legal but an actual entity separate from them.

Now that the whole world has been made a neighborhood by the marvelous facilities for intercommunication and measurably a brotherhood by the marvelous development of fraternal interest every city learns from all others, and we compare notes, discuss failures, plan successes and hearten one another to new endeavors.

Many United States cities caught the idea of city planning, as it was called, engaged as advisers those or other experts, and now more than fifty cities have adopted plans for developing a civic center of principal public buildings and from that parks, avenues and boulevards which shall in the course of years avail of every natural opportunity for making the city beautiful. More than half a million dollars has been expended in such plans in the United States, and they call for the expenditure of at least 500 times as much money in the course of the next fifty years. No such program of city embellishment was ever dreamed of or at all possible before.

It is the united endeavor, as it were, of our modern municipal civilization even though each city has acted separately. All our other cities will follow the example, and many of them already have taken steps toward it. At the end of this century cities of incomparable beauty will be found in all the states of America.

Public playgrounds indeed have been practically created in the past decade. The need for them had to be shown first by public spirited citizens who provided them until the municipality took them up officially, as was the case with the kindergarten and other modern improvements in public education.

Public schools and public libraries which we admired for their buildings, their equipment and their training in the nineteenth century would not content us in the twentieth century.

As in the man, so in the city, the spirit is the most important. As a city thinketh in its heart so is it. Its spirit determines its life.

TO USE GARBAGE AS FUEL.

Quincy, Ill., May Adopt Method In Vogue In Europe.

While the health board of Quincy, Ill., is working to evolve some effective and economical plan for disposing of the city's garbage and waste, information concerning the experiences of other cities is being sought. City officials are watching the system in Cleveland, O., where the plan of reduction and the sale of byproducts of the city's waste is being tried.

Some city authorities now are considering converting the street rubbish as a mass into combustible briquets for heating boilers. They have found that at Southwark, London, and at St. Ouen, France, street rubbish is transformed into a marketable product. At Southwark all the powder thus made, with the addition of combustible substances, is formed into a cheap fuel.

Besides a financial profit, it is reasoned that the danger in times of epidemic will be greatly lessened by such transformation of street refuse.

GET ABOVE YOUR JOB.

Don't Settle Down Contentedly—You'll Die a Nobody.

There are two ways to "settle down." One is to settle down contented and the other to settle down discontented. Give me the man that settles down discontented. There's some hope for him. To imagine that your nest is all nicely made and to think that it will stay made are fatal to growth. Don't settle down on your job. Grow bigger than the job. Just holding down a position won't do. But making the position of greater importance and making it more profitable for yourself and your employer are the things to work out. I know a porter who recently worked himself into the position of receiving clerk by abhorring to settle down on the porter job.—Grocery World and General Merchant.

Shade Trees Hide Light.

The Binghamton (N. Y.) department of public works will undertake to remove the obstructing limbs of many shade trees throughout the city which now prevent a proper distribution of light. An ordinance in existence provides that all shade trees shall be trimmed at least twelve feet from the ground. Binghamton is a city of shade trees, but there is scarcely a street where the property owners comply with the law.

WEST PARIS.

Solon Chandler Curtis.

Solon Chandler Curtis died at his home on Curtis Hill in Woodstock, Thursday, at 10.30 p. m.

Nearly three years ago he was taken with a kidney trouble and received temporay help two or three times by going to Dr. King's hospital in Portland, but the disease was too deeply seated to effect a cure and he gradually failed in health until about four weeks ago he became confined to the bed, and in the last stages of his sickness tuberculosis of the lungs set in which hastened his death.

Mr. Curtis was the son of the late Holland Curtis and Eliza Walkea-Curtis and was born in Woodstock 51 years ago. He was the eldest of six children, all the rest of whom are living: Mrs. Lillian Martin and Vesta Curtis, who live with the mother in West Paris, Mrs. Nellie Hall of Mechanic Falls, Guy L. Curtis of Norway and Mrs. Elvesa Packard of Greenwood.

On June 1, 1893, he married Lottie Lurvey of Woodstock, whose home after the death of her parents was with her uncle and aunt, the late Simeon Curtis and his wife, Mrs. Betsey G. Curtis, and where they went to make their home with them. To them was given one daughter, Marion Ruth, who with her mother and the aged Aunt Betsey Curtis are left in the home to mourn their loss.

Mr. Curtis was one of the prosperous and industrious farmers, always interested in modern improvements. He was a member of the West Paris Grange, the West Paris lodge of I. O. O. F. and Onward Rebekah lodge. He had a wide circle of friends and relatives where he will be greatly missed as well as in the home.

The funeral which was held in the Free Baptist church on Sunday at 2.30 p. m., was largely attended. The seating capacity was filled even to the wing pews and gallery. The service was in charge of the I. O. O. F. with Rev. J. H. Little of Bethel for the funeral sermon, assisted by Rev. D. A. Ball of West Paris.

About 40 Odd Fellows were present in a body and escorted the remains to the cemetery and with a large number of relatives who followed the procession was an unusually long one. The Rebekahs and Odd Fellows also attended in a body. There were five beautiful floral pieces, a pillow with "Father," a large wreath with "Husband," bouquet of pinks from Aunt Betsy, a large basket with "Brother" and wreath with "P. of H.

Elinor H. Tuell was in Portland, last week, visiting friends and relatives.

Rev. L. W. Raymond went to Redding last week to attend Mr. Davis' funeral.

Mrs. Emily L. Emmons' two neices, who came from Philadelphia to attend her funeral, last Friday, stayed with Mr. Emmons until Monday.

The lecture to be given by Rev. H. A. Young in the Free Baptist church, has been indefinitely postponed on account of unavoidable circumstances.

Mrs. Josephine Bates, who has been spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. Hall, in South Paris, is again in the the Maine General Hospital for treatment for cataract on the eye.

C. L. Ridlon and L. H. Penley attended the automobile show in Portland. Edwin J. Mann also attended the auto show, Thursday, and went from there to Bangor to attend on Saturday the alumni meeting of the U. of M. class of 1901, of which he is a member.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

W. W. Watson is preparing to do an extensive business in sawing birch into spool stock.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Billings returned home on Saturday from a two months visit with the family of Mrs. Billings' daughter in West Medford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Monroe and Marion Munroe of Philadelphia, who are on a tour of California, are staying at the Gally Cottages at Nordhoff. This is their third visit here, and they will remain about a month.

W. K. Hamlin is having an immense quantity of birch, pine and other timber hauled to his mill for sawing spool strips and box materials for corn boxes, and for toe-calk boxes for Boston manufactures of those articles. Hapgood and Willard are sawing a large stock of staves and heading fur apple barrels and long lumber for building material.

The Waterford Corn-Packing Company, at an adjourned meeting held on Monday evening, Feb. 19, a large number of stockholders being present. President A. G. Morse in the chair; it was announced that Mr. D. B. Cram of East Hiram, an experienced corn-packer of that town was present for the purpose of imparting information pertaining to processes of canning sweet corn, kind and cost of materials for same, cost of labor, business of marketing products and all necessaay operations of field and factory. For two hours Mr. Cram found himself the target for a rapid volley of questions which he answered promptly and satisfactorily. Being informed by the secretary concerning the amount of stock subscribed for promoting the enterprise, Mr Cram expressed sincere faith in the success of the enterprise and advised the stockholders to push it without hesitation. On motion the vote to proceed to the erection of the building was nearly unanimous.

The anniversary of George Washington's birth was observed by Bear Mountain Grange at its last meeting, Feb 24. Subjects of national and local interest engaged the attention of those present. Worthy Lecturer Pike presented a fine programe, the principal feature of which was, "Current Events," requiring each brother and sister to relate some incident of current history of special interest. It is impossible to report all that was told. Brother Sias gave a brief narrative of the recent celebration of the Dunbar at Delhi, India; the Coronation of King George and Queen Mary as Emperor and Empress of India, and the story of the change of the seat of the National Government from Delhi, the ancient capital, to the city of Calcutta. This suggested to Brother Fernald the wonderful revolution now transpiring in China from a despotism to a democracy, and that even Woman Suffrage is one of the prominent subjects of agitation according to the latest intelligence. A prolobged discussion of the public school conditions ensued, in which Brothers Sias, Millett, Saunders and others participated in spirited remarks. It being announced that our Grange is indebted to many other neighboring Granges for invitations to fraternal visits and festive enjoyments, it was voted the Bear Mountain Grange extends a cordial invitation to the following sister Granges to make a return visit on Saturday, March 9. all day, viz: Crooked River Grange, Sweden Suncook, Waterford, and Round Mountain.

Your Friends May Not Know You

If you take Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit from it as did Mr. Benjamin C. Rose of Saunderstown, R. I. He says, "My sickness and bad feelings from dyspepsia and nervous prostration extended over seven years. Physicians, medicines and treatments gave practically the same result,—no help, but Hood's Sarsaparilla did the work for me and did it well. Friends said I did not seem to be the same man. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a great spring medicine, a fine stomach and nerve tonic."

"Men do not counterfeit counterfeits, nor imitate that which is worthless or unknown."

The Only Successful Treatment

FOR

Liquor and Drug Using

The KEELEY TREATMENT removes the craving for Liquor and Drugs and leaves the man master of himself. IT IS THE ONLY TREATMENT THAT WILL DO THIS and the only one that cures alcoholic and drug inebriety. This treatment has restored over 400,000 men and women who were addicted to liquor and drugs; among the number are over 20,000 physicians. It is the PIONEER in this work and has many imitators, but no rivals or competitors as far as RESULTS are concerned.

During the THIRD OF A CENTURY that this treatment has been continously and successfully administered, nearly two thousand imitations, or alleged "cure" concerns have started out as our competitors; today scarcely a dozen survive. Some of them so closely imitate our claims, literature, etc., to such an extent, as to indicate a predetermined intent to deceive. They appear under almost every conceivable name, fool the people for a little while and pass on into oblivion, forgotten by the public, but not by the unfortunates whom they deluded and duped into trying their methods. The one regretable feature is that they should be able to deceive any through false pretentions, or with their absurd and preposterous claims, for in many cases they drive all hope and confidence out of the lives of those whom they have thus misled.

If you have need to take treatment for the Liquor or Drug addiction, investigate THE KEELY CURE, a treatment than is know the world around, and which is recognized by the public and medical profession as THE ONLY SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT for those addictions. Look up some of our former patients, whom you will find in every community. They are healthy, happy and prosperous; many of them will tell you that they would not be living today if it had not been for the KEELY TREATMENT. All business and correspondence with us is strictly confidential and all inquires answered in plain sealed envelope.

WINTER POULTRY ILLS.

Methods of Treatment Recommended For Catarrh and Liver Congestion.

One of the commonest of the winter diseases of poultry is catarrh. Cold, some people call it; others speak of it as roup. It is not this last, although so close is the resemblance at times that one could easily be misled. Anyway, catarrh is serious enough. It is catching also. Among birds roosting with heads pressed closely together the sick ones are sure to give it to healthy fowls. It seems to follow along the line of pure breeds. This may be due to the fact that the penned breeding stock from which eggs and breeders have been bought has been housed too warmly and pampered and that somehow a predisposition to take on catarrh follows down through the generations.

You will first notice it by a peculiar shake of the head, next a running at the nostrils and sometimes gurgling in the throat. If you cannot master this phase of the disease in young fowls in a few days, better kill them. The sniffy nosed should be separated from the well, housed by themselves, fed heavily on rich foods, with arsenite of antimony or quinine in drinking water and mash. The head should occasionally be dipped in kerosene—half water, half kerosene. Two applications have been known to stop the nostril discharge. Get arsenite tablets one one-thousandth of a grain in strength and place twelve of these in one pint of water. If you give quinine give two grains to the fowl per day. This disease is decidedly dangerous among the young fowls, so many die with inflammation of the lungs, which seems to follow the catarrh.

The above disease is likely to take hold of the young in the cool days of fall, extending to the older fowls in winter. There is one winter disease of fowls a year old or over that is seldom known among the young—liver congestion. It is probably due to a rich ration, like corn and lack of sufficient grit. If one feeds sufficient bran with corn, as bran is a laxative, the danger may be averted, though the grit be missing.

Quite often one will not guess this trouble until the older, fatter hens begin dying. The remedy is varied food, grit and exercise.—Farm and Fireside.

MINERS, NOT FARMERS.

A society for prevention of cruelty to the soil should be formed to prevent farmers who do not read the agricultural papers from mining the potash and phosphoric acid and selling them without proper return to the land of their equivalent.

Twofold Value of Shade Trees.

The landowner who plants no shade trees deprives himself of two sources of lifelong enjoyment. First, he misses the beauty which the growing tree imparts of his surroundings and the comfort its shade may afford the dwellers in his farmstead, both human and four footed; second, he loses the exaltation of feeling that ever comes from the exercise of the altruism which plans for coming generations regardless of oneself.—Kansas Farmer.

Grafting Wax.

A good recipe for grafting wax is to take four pounds rosin, two pounds beeswax and one pound tallow. Set them on the stove in a pan or something of that character to aid in dissolving, and when they have reached the liquid state pour into a pail of cold water. This will make a thick mass like molasses candy, and it can be pulled and made into rolls as desired.—New England Homestead.

Working Soils When Wet.

Soils should not be worked when they are wet. This is especially true of those which do not have much organic matter. Clay soil makes a good brick because it is free from organic matter. Working some soils when they are too wet and allowing them to bake in the sun really makes brick of the parts turned up, and those parts will be about as productive as bricks would be.—Farm Progress.

Live Stock Notes.

When you use a grade or scrub sire you are breeding for the worst there is in him. There is no quicker way to run down a herd of domestic animals than to use a low grade herd header.

Azoturia comes from overfeeding idle horses. Save feed and horses, too, by reducing the ration when they are not working.

If your sheep get scabs better clean them all out and begin over. It is the best way to cure disease.

Speltz makes very good hog feed when ground, and some folks soak it for feeding. It has nearly the same feeding value as wheat.

Growing colts should always have a smooth, roomy lot in which to exercise and should be given the run of this inclosure summer and winter.

Alfalfa pasture and skimmilk make an excellent combination for growing pigs. A pound of corn per day for a hog weighing 100 pounds will be sufficient to make a rapid and profitable growth.

It is a serious mistake to buy a ram just because he is well bred and good looking. He must have individual merit.

The man who compels his horse to pull the plow day after day with an ill fitting collar should be compelled to pitch bundles to a thrashing machine with a fork with a bur oak sapling for a handle until he gets his brain into working order.

"Two are company."

"Yes, until they are made one."—Baltimore American.

THE HOTBED.

As there are always those every spring who are taking up gardening for the first time it will be in place to again give simple directions for making the hotbed, which will not only pay for itself in the toothsome radishes and lettuce which it will provide for the table, but also in furnishing tomato, cabbage, cauliflower, pepper, eggplant, etc., for transplanting into the open ground. The location of the bed is important, and preferably this should be on the south side of a building or tight board fence, where the sun's rays will be cornered. The length and width of the hotbed will depend upon one's purpose and upon the dimension of the window sash which are available. The frame should be so built that the sash will slope to the south five or six inches and may be built about a trench dug in the ground or made of wider stuff set on the ground and banked with manure. We have tried both ways and prefer the former. Into the pit prepared should be placed eight or ten inches of fresh horse manure containing about one-third short straw or other litter, which will keep it from heating too rapidly. The chemical reaction which generates the heat will be hastened if a few pails of water are poured over the manure. This should be allowed to heat some before the earth is put in, which should be of a rich, mellow loam if possible and spread evenly to a depth of five inches. The sash should then be put on and things allowed to warm up. When the air in the bed shows a temperature of about 70 degrees the seed may be planted in rows or broadcast, as one may prefer. The bed should be watered frequently enough to keep the soil moist, and if the thermometer or hand shows the bed is getting too hot the sash should be lifted during the day to permit ventilation. Where one does not have window sash for the purpose white cotton cloth tacked on a frame will answer the same purpose if the weather is not too severe and will make the bed self ventilating. As a safeguard against a cold snap pieces of old carpet or canvas or a pile of straw with which to cover the bed should be kept handy. Before the plants which are to be transferred to the open ground are removed the sash should be removed entirely to allow the plants to toughen.

A CODLING MOTH PARASITE.

A codling moth parasite has been discovered by Professor E. P. Taylor in Grand valley, Colorado, that bids fair to be a great aid to orchardists in the incessant warfare which they have to wage against this worst insect foe of the apple family. The parasite, which is in reality a tiny bee, is so small that it takes eighty-three of the bees placed end to end to cover the space of an inch, while two or three of them find ample room in a codling moth egg, which is not larger than the eye end of a medium sized needle. Professor Taylor has been observing the work of this bee for the past four years, but not until the past summer has the insect been present in sufficient numbers to make effective inroads against the codling moth. The tiny bee searches out the freshly laid moth eggs, pierces their shells and deposits its eggs within. The eggs of the parasite hatch in a couple of days and at once begin to devour the contents of the egg. Eggs thus attacked turn to an unnatural black color. On reaching its growth the bee cuts an opening through the shell of the egg and emerges as a red-fish, four winged microscopic bee-like insect. All orchardists who have been through the exacting and not entirely pleasant process of spraying will hope that this little insect friend may greatly multiply and penetrate to every corner of the land where apples are grown.

A DASTARDLY PROPOSITION.

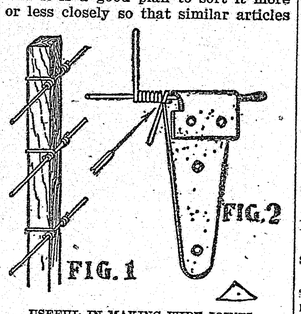

Press dispatches of a couple of weeks ago told of the proposal to perpetrate one of the most dastardly agricultural outrages which have ever been recorded in this country. It seems to have been a scheme hatched by two or three New York cotton speculators who had laid a plan to scatter through Georgia and South Carolina 1,000,000 cotton boll weevils so that the fields in these states would be attacked by the pest and the yield of cotton correspondingly reduced and the prices boosted. It is estimated that at the rate at which the weevil is spreading from the western and central southern states it will be about two years before this enemy of the cotton plant will reach the territory above referred to, but how any man or group of men could be so absolutely money mad as to conceive the idea of hastening the spread of the insect when the combined federal and state insect fighting forces are doing all in their power to hold it in check is absolutely incomprehensible. It would be hard indeed to devise a punishment that would be adequate for an offense of this kind.

If you get mad at a man, make up your mind what you're going to say, and then don't say it.—Exchange.

MADE FROM SCRAP IRON.

How Some Old Material May Be Turned Into a Useful Tool.

On every farm there is sure to accumulate in time a considerable amount of old iron. This is always saved with the idea that some of it can be utilized for various purposes and with the knowledge that the remainder can be sold as old iron. It is good economy to save this material, and it is a good plan to sort it more or less closely so that similar articles

USEFUL IN MAKING WIRE JOINTS.

[From the Kansas Farmer.]

may be together. Use for something from this scrap pile may be found almost daily. For instance, an old wagon tire may be cut, straightened out and used as the connecting rod on a wagon brake.

In the cut shown herewith there is indicated a way in which a very useful tool may be made from the half of an old strap hinge. This homemade tool is for use in making wire joints or couplings, and the picture shows pretty well how it is used. As the loop on the ordinary hinge is generally too small to accommodate a two or three strand wire, the picture is drawn to show this loop cut off and the end of the hinge bent over to form a new one. Before this new loop is made a section of the hinge should be filed away, as shown, so as to give a grip on the end of the wire. A nice, smooth wire coupling or splice not only adds much to its appearance, but increases its life as well. A good joint does not pull apart, and with the aid of this tool it is just as easy to make a good, smooth joint as a poor one, and it lasts. —Kansas Farmer.

The Dane buys our cottonseed and linseed meal and exports butter, keeping all the fertility on his soil. Can the Dane teach us anything?

Method For Old Orchards.

Professor W. N. Munson recommends for treatment of old orchards to plow as early as possible in the spring, harrow at once and apply about 500 pounds of fertilizer to the acre, then harrow about once in two weeks until the middle of August, when a cover crop of rye or spring vetch should be sown. In working among the trees he finds the traceless harness of great value. The exact time and method of tillage are not so important as to be sure that a fair amount of tillage is given.—American Cultivator.

For Tying Up Shocks.

A handy thing to use in tying up corn or fodder shocks: Bore a three-eighths inch hole in a broomstick; pass through this a piece of clothesline six inches shorter than a hay baling wire. In the end of the line tie a three inch ring. Go around the shock with the line and stick, place the stick through the ring and pull it through. Then you can tie the shock with baling wire.

For an Underground Tank.

We have the assurance of the Scientific American that the best material for an underground tank is heavy black sheet iron thoroughly painted with iron paint or some preserving compound. This is said to be more durable than galvanized iron, especially in some soils and where electric currents exist.

The Hum of the Hive.

The principal products—honey and wax—were never in greater demand than at the present time, and beekeeping bids fair to soon take a higher rank among the productive industries than as hitherto been accorded it.

There is but one kind of honey for the farmer to produce for his own use, and that is "chunk," comb honey cut out of the frame and put into jars to be kept.

When a queen is no longer young some instinct teaches the bees that they should look ahead and prepare for future contingencies. The doctrine so frequently enunciated, "Keep only young queens," is simply a lesson taught us by the wisdom of the bees.

The long nights may be turned to good account by the handy man in the mending of supers, etc., that may not be in use. The work can be done thoroughly, as there is no hurry as in the summer when the whole of the parts and fitting are upon active service, so to speak.

Don't set the hives in neat rows, with the entrances all facing one way. They can be placed in pairs, but the pairs should be scattered as widely as possible. This is an important point, but it would take a page to explain all the whys.

It is well to open up and ventilate the bee cellar occasionally for an hour or two after dark and to sweep and gather up any dead bees that may have accumulated on the cellar floor.

Why be content with ten or twenty pounds of surplus honey per hive when a little careful manipulation will mean seventy-five or even 100 pounds from every prosperous colony in a good season?

GILEAD.

Deborah C. Lary.

Deborah C. Burbank Lary died Friday, Feb. 23, of heart failure, aged 82 years. She married Jedediah Lary and had lived all her life on a farm in Gilead. They had three daughters, Edith and Grace, who live at the home, and Minnie, who lives in New Jersey. She is also survived by a granddaughter, Mrs. Rupert Coffin of Shelburne, N. H., and a grandson, Albert Farwell. Religiously she was a Methodist. The funeral was from her late home, Sunday, at 1 o'clock p. m., interment in Lary cemetery.

Edgar Berry is visiting friends in town.

George Croteau is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. John Gauthier went to Gorham, N. H., Sunday.

Alfred Heath is working for Archie Heatb, driving team.

The main shaft broke in Leighton's bobbin mill, Monday.

Brainard Burbank and wife attended Mrs. Deborah Lary's funeral.

Catholic services were held in the schoolhouse, Sunday, Feb. 25.

Mrs. Fred Goodnow has been ill for several days past, but is some better now.

Earle Coffin spent several days at home from Portland, where he is attending college.

Perley Bennett got his leg hurt by a block of wood striking him while working in the car.

Mrs. George Aldrich is visiting her sister, Mrs. Eva Decoster. Mrs. Aldrich will visit several nieces while in Gilead.

Herbert Bennett lost a finger, Saturday, in the Leighton bobbin mill, while taking blocks away from the cutting up saw.

Mrs. Winfield Newell gave her husband a birthday surprise party. A very enjoyable evening was passed playing games.

OXFORD.

Mrs. Peter Blue is very sick.

Mamie and Vera Kay were in Lewiston, Friday.

Mrs. Josiah Trebilcock and son Lewis were at Norway, Saturday.

Angie Thayer of South Paris is the guest of Mrs. F. A. Delano.

Henry Lapham, who has been working at South Paris, is at home.

Pearl Locke is visiting with her friend, Ruby Wilson, at Gray for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heslop is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wardwell.

The ladies of the Advent mission society met with Mrs. W. E. Boyd, Thursday of last week.

Twenty-five members of the Craigie Lodge, K. of P., visited the lodge at Mechanic Falls, Friday night.

Jessie Kay, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis in Boston, was able to return home last week. Her sister Vera came with her. Vera will return after two weeks' vacation.

Recitations for the end of winter term were given by the students of the Oxford high school, Friday afternoon. Several visitors were present. This school will continue this week and close Friday.

Mrs. Charles Davis entertained the Congregational circle.

Lillian Andrews entertained the Jersey Guild, Monday night.

The M. E. circle met with Mrs. F. A. Delano, Wednesday, the 28th.

Elsie Bowser is gaining rapidly. Her case was quite serious and at first grave doubts were expressed of her recovery.

Gladys Rowe is getting along nicely. She is in the C. M. G. hospital for treatment. She will be at home for a few days.

The primary, intermediate and grammar grades closed last week but the high school will continue another week. They will have a vacation of a few weeks.

Dr. H. R. Farris and wife were in Gorham, N. H., last week and rumor says he has serious thoughts of locating there. Oxford will hardly consent to that arrangement.

Margaret Walker is reported as failing rapidly. She and her mother have been in Shelburne, N. H., since last fall, where she went in pursuit of health. Her aunt, Emma Page, is up there with them.

Mrs. Mattie Holden entertained her Sabbath school class, Friday, the 23d. Games were played and a peanut hunt pleased the boys very much. Ice cream, cake and peanuts were served. When the class went home they said "Teacher, we had a very nice time."

Prof. Ramsdell and students of Bates College came Wednesday, the 21st, according to arrangements for their fishing trip on Lake Thompson. They could not find any fault with the weather for they had all kinds for the 22d, sunshine, rain, snow, high winds, warm with a slight hint of a cold wave. The party of six caught three fish but they went back rested and refreshed for work in the morning.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Mrs. Horace Pike and son, Irving, have been visiting in Boston, Brockton and Holbrook, Mass. Mrs. Pike returned to her home here.

Two caucuses at Norway Hall next Saturday afternoon. The Republicans will meet at 2 o'clock and the Citizens at 3. They are to select candidates to be supported at the town meeting of March 4th. You are invited to attend.

Too Busy For Business.

In a small town that was "finished" before the war, two men were playing checkers in the back of a store. A traveling man who was making his first trip to the town was watching the game, and, not being acquainted with the business methods of the citizens, he called the attention of the owner of the store to some customers who had just entered the front door.

"Sh! Sh!" answered the storekeeper, making another move on the checkerboard. "Keep perfectly quiet and they will go out."—Everybody's.

Murdering Shakespeare.

What, we wonder, would happen to the London manager nowadays who should dare to put on the stage such a version of a Shakespearean tragedy as was played in Ireland over a hundred years ago? Mrs. Earle in her book, "Memoirs and Memories," gives a Dublin playbill of 1793 which is well worth quoting.

The play was "the tragedy of 'Hamlet,' originally written and composed by the celebrated Dan Hayes of Limerick and inserted in Shakespeare's works." The title role is taken by a gentleman "who between the acts will perform several solos on the patent bagpipe which performs two tunes at the same time."

REPELS ATTACK OF DEATH.

"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Noyes Drug Store. 9-13

Girls

Read About These Three Girls. How Sick They Were and How Their Health Was Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored my health. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss CECILIA M. BAUER, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S GRATITUDE:

Geneva, Iowa.—"I have been teaching school for some years and I have neglected my health because I was too busy with my work to attend to myself properly. I suffered greatly every month and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"I wrote to you about my condition and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Purifier as you recommended. These remedies have done wonders for me and I can highly and widely recommend them to every suffering woman."—Miss MINNIE SHAVER, R. F. D. No. 1, Geneva, Iowa, c/o Sam Erickson.

A COLORADO GIRL'S CASE:

Montrose, Col.—"I was troubled very much with irregular periods. Sometimes two months would elapse. I suffered severe headache, was weak and nervous, could eat scarcely anything.

"I took both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and the result was wonderful. I feel like another person.

"I think your remedies are the best on earth and cannot express my thankfulness to you for what they have done to me. I help my neighbors when they are sick, and I shall always recommend your medicines."—Miss ELLA MCCANDLESS, Montrose, Col.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there are lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A Great Discovery.

Certain Ingredients That Really Promote Hair Growth when Properly Combined.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Napthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpin, although not a coloring matter or dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp.

These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added as a stimulant and for its well-define nourishing properties, perfect perhaps the most effective remedy that is known to scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely invaluable medicinal agents. We guarantee it to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness, or we will refund your money. If the scalp has a glazed, shiny appearance, it's an indication that baldness is permanent, but in other instances we believe baldness is curable.

We want every one troubled with scalp disease or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93 per cent. of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike, and we think in every particular, better than anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Norway only at our store—The Rexall Store. F. P. Stone, 143 Main Street, Norway. 9

THEY DIDN'T LAUGH.

Mark Twain Was Funny, but His Audience Gave Him the Stony Stare.

There was one occasion when Mark Twain's humor went astray and instead of the hilarious laughter he expected poor Clemens got only sad and stony stares from the three literary lions at whom he had aimed his mirthful efforts as well as from the rest of the banqueters who were all worshipers of the burlesqued trio. The story is told by F. M. Colby in the Bookman:

Mark Twain had gladly accepted the invitation to address the diners and, knowing that Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes were to be among them, had prepared, in high confidence, a little skit telling of three absurd impostors who had announced themselves by these distinguished names at a miner's cabin in the far west. According to the story, a melancholy miner at whose cabin Mark Twain found shelter one night told him that three other "littery men" had stayed with him the night before and given him much trouble. They were Mr. Emerson, Mr. Longfellow and Mr. Holmes. In reply to Mark Twain's question the miner gives an account of the visit.

They were a rough lot, but that's nothing; everybody looks rough that travels afoot. Mr. Emerson was a seedy little bit of a chap, red headed. Mr. Holmes was as fat as a balloon. He weighed as much as 300 and had double chins all the way down to his stomach. Mr. Longfellow was built like a prizefighter. His head was cropped and bristly-like, as if he had a wig made of hairbrushes. His nose lay straight down on his face, like a finger with the end joint tilted up. They had been drinking. I could see that. And what queer talk they used! Mr. Holmes inspected this cabin, and then he took me by the buttonhole, and says he:

"Through the deep caves of thought
I hear a voice that sings,
Build thee more stately mansions,
O my soul!"

Says I, "I can't afford it, Mr. Holmes, and, moreover, I don't want to." Blamed if I liked it pretty well, either, coming from a stranger, that way. However, I started to get out my bacon and beans when Mr. Emerson came and looked on awhile, and then he takes me aside by the buttonhole and says:

"Give me agates for my meat;
Give me cantharides to eat;
From air and ocean bring me foods,
From all zones and altitudes."

Says I, "Mr. Emerson, if you'll excuse me, this ain't no hotel."

Primaries and Enrollment.

A misconception seems to be in the minds of some voters concerning the primary election machinery. The primaries are not for independent voters, who have their opportunity for choice of candidates at the regular election in September, but are only for voters who are willing to declare their political preferences and to enroll themselves as members of some political party. This does not mean that they must bind themselves by a bidebound pledge to support all the candidates of their party, no matter how obnoxious a candidate may be, but simply that in general they expect to be identified and to act with the parties of their respective choice. The primary election, in other words, takes the place of the former party caucuses and of district, state and county conventions, so far as elections other than municipal are concerned. It does not apply to March meetings. Under the old system, to take county officers to illustrate the law, each party held its town caucus, elected delegates to a county convention, and when that county convention met, it chose the candidates of the party for each county office. Now, instead of the caucus and the county convention, the voters of each political party select the candidates of the party for each office at the primaries, to be held in June. Let us take as an illustration the contest between the two republican aspirants in 1908 for the republican nomination for county attorney, Mr. Dyer and Mr. Parker. Under the old system, the rivalry was for the election of delegates to the republican county convention, and the candidate securing the most delegates received the nomination. If that contest was to take place this year, each republican ballot in the primary election would bear the names of Mr. Dyer and Mr. Parker for the position of county attorney, and every republican who participated in the primary election could mark his choice between them, the one receiving the most votes would be the regular nominee of the party at the September election. The primaries are only for the choice of party nominees. The ballots furnished at the primaries for republicans contain the names of republican aspirants for the party nominations, the ballots furnished for democrats contain the names of democratic aspirants for party nominations, and while the primary of all parties is held, for convenience, at the same time, and with the same election officers, they actually have nothing more to do with each other than would two party caucuses held in different rooms of the same building. A republican enters the town hall, asks for a republican ballot, enters the booth, marks on his ballot the names of his choice for the republican nominations for state, county, and representative class officers, deposits the ballot, and goes on his way, his acts only affect the nominees of his own party. The democrat does precisely the same thing, he has nothing to say as between republican aspirants, any more than he could have voted in a republican caucus under the old system, neither does the republican have anything to say as between the different aspirants for democratic nominations. The man who is neither republican nor democrat, but desires to select part of his candidates from one party and part from the other, has no proper place in the primaries, his opportunity comes at the regular election in September, he cannot take a republican ballot, and on it express his preference, for instance, between two republican candidates for county attorney, and then take a democratic ballot, and on that express his preference as between two democratic candidates for representative to the legislature, he must keep within one line or the other, so far as party nominations go.

The most important preliminary feature of the primaries is enrollment. Before a voter can take part in the primaries of his own party, he must be enrolled as a member of that party. There are three methods of enrollment for voters who are not already enrolled prior to the present year, all very simple, but like other simple things, needing attention. One is to go to the town clerk's office and sign his enrollment book, which simply means a signature, and the word "democrat," "republican", "socialist," etc., after the name, according to the desire of the voter. Another means is to sign a short blank, declaring that the voter wishes to be enrolled as a member of the———party, filling in the name of the party of his choice. This blank is to be filed with the town clerk. In Norway, the chairman of the two town committees, Mr. M. L. Kimball and Mr. J. A. Roberts, are supplied with these blanks, and democrats can be enrolled by calling on Mr. Kimball and signing, while republicans can be enrolled in similar manner by calling on Mr. Roberts. Lastly, voters can be enrolled at the primaries themselves, but in order to do so they must take oath that they are members of the party for whom they declare preference, and intend to support its candidates at the coming election. This is sometimes more of a declaration than many voters desire to take, and is not required by in enrollment by town clerk's book or by enrollment blank, where a simple expression of membership in the party is all that is required, without oath. As a rule, voters desiring to take part in the primaries will find it much more agreeable and convenient to be enrolled before the date set for the June primary election.

SWIFT'S LOWELL PROGRESSIVE FERTILIZERS

Swift's Lowell Animal Fertilizers give you plant food in Nature's richest forms. They are made of Bone, Meat and Blood, with high grade Potash added. For restoring rundown soils, organic matter is absolutely needed. It opens up the heavy clay to light and air, warms the soil, and furnishes available plant food from the very start. Swift's Fertilizers do more than nourish crops—they build up the soil for years.

"I have raised this year 1450 bushels of Gold Coin Potatoes on 3½ acres of land. I used five tons of your Superior Fertilizer. Last year we raised 2000 bushels on 5½ acres and used 1 ton of Superior per acre."—CORA E. VOSE, KNOX CENTRE, Me.

"I planted a field of corn, the land having previously been in grass for several years. I gave the land a high coat of manure and then used your Swift's Lowell Bone Fertilizer in the drill when planting. The corn was the White Southern Fodder corn and it averaged all over the piece at least 15 feet in height. The ears were about 6 to 7 feet from the ground, and I harvested between 60 to 70 tons of silage from these two acres. One man who has been working for three weeks in the neighborhood filling silos, stated that he did not see a piece of corn in the town that could touch this one."—EDW. T. RILEY, Salem Depot, N.H.

They are safe and efficient, may be used with or without manure, and are always uniform. See our local agent or write us direct. Pocket Handbook free.

Putting Down Eggs For Winter Use.

When one can obtain strictly fresh laid eggs at this season it is good economy to pack a number for winter use. It is not expensive or any great trouble to do this if one goes at it the right way.

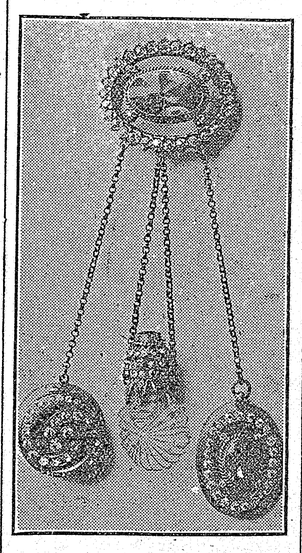

One should buy fertile eggs, and they must not be more than three days old—better to pack the day they are laid or the day after. Use a ten gallon stone jar. Boil six gallons of water in an absolutely clean vessel. Let it stand till cold.

Have ready two quarts of water glass, obtained at any drug store for a few cents. For every cupful of water glass use ten cupfuls of water. Put them in the mixture in the jar without washing. This last is important, because there is a natural oily substance on the shell that helps to keep the pores filled.

Eggs so packed are as nice, as fresh and beat up as well as new laid eggs.

Cooking Breakfast In Bed.

Surely no one should have trouble in keeping a cook in a house with all electric appliances, like those described in the September issue of Suburban Life. The author says: "In connection with the wiring of the house, a switch was located in the maid's bedroom at the head of her bed. When she first awoke in the morning she could turn this switch and start the coffee and cereals before getting out of bed. She would get these dishes ready before retiring for the night and then simply insert the plugs in the electric dishes ready for turning the switch the next morning. Thus she was always sure of avoiding delay, which is not always true with a coal range. At the best the fire in the coal range would be just about 'coming up' by the time the maid was dressed and in the kitchen. With the electric outfit the coffee and the cereal were practically ready to serve."

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Miss Julia Marlowe

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Any remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition.

If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and nervous debility is the result.

CO-OPERATION BASIS OF COMMUNITY GROWTH.

Democracy without the altruistic spirit—the spirit which considers first the general good—is a farce. The co-operative organizations which are now becoming so popular among farmers are essentially altruistic. Therein they make for democracy. The extension of co-operation means the yoking of all the forces of science and invention—which an overintense individualism has heretofore allowed to minister chiefly to the advancement of private fortunes—to the advancement of the communal welfare. Co-operation makes it no longer essential to the best economic use of either land, machinery or capital, that the ownership of large areas shall be concentrated in the hands of individuals. It makes small landholdings compatible with the largest agricultural undertakings. In carrying on any public enterprise or introducing any public betterment the combined resources of many men of small means can usually accomplish anything possible to the multimillionaire, and accomplish it in such a way as to make the undertaking helpful in the manner of its doing as well as in its results. Growth comes rapidly to a community where many men are thinking for the general good and just as rapidly to the individual who thus makes it manifest that he is touched with the divine spirit of altruism.—C. R. Barns.

DENVER HAS PLAYGROUNDS BOTH WINTER AND SUMMER

A Hustling Park Board Keeps Children of Western City Healthy.

Denver believes in playgrounds in winter as well as in summer, observes Art and Progress. Denver's playground system is one of the best in the United States. In 1910 the park board expended $12,000 on the improvement. Denver has been forehanded in securing breathing spaces for its citizens while they were to be had at comparatively little cost. If all cities should thus anticipate their needs it would be well. Denver decorates its principal streets at Christmas with evergreens, placing large wreaths pendent on its electroliers and cedar on its light standards.

A Denver firm made an effort to give agreeable aspect to the ordinary board fence which customarily incloses the lot upon which a structure is being erected. Instead of the board fence in this instance there is an artistic arcade, supporting a paled in roof, along which shrubs have been placed.

Paper Drinking Cups.

In the schools of Austria the children are taught to carry several sheets of writing paper in their pockets at all times. Then when a child is thirsty he can roll one of the sheets into a cone and make a perfectly serviceable cup, which may be placed, after being used, in the nearest waste paper box. How to roll the cones deftly is taught the children. The tearing of a notch about half an inch long near one end before rolling the cone serves to make the improved cup stronger.

GOOD BOOKS.

Good books are masters who correct our ignorance without putting it to shame. They instruct us without rods or ferrules, without harsh words or anger, without fees and without fatigue. When you approach them they are never weary, when you interrogate them they conceal nothing. If you mistake them they do not grumble; if you are stupid they do not laugh at you. They are the most patient and gentle of our teachers and the most to be cherished.

Avoid Harsh Drugs.

Many Carthatics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and carthartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tastless, and colorless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge, nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons, and aged people, as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in three size packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store. F. P. Stone, 143 Main Street, Norway, Me.

Health Insurance

is unnecessary for those who keep well all the time. The best way to keep well is by proper diet, sufficient rest, enough exercise, and above all things by keeping the bowels regular. If you are unfortunate enough to be suffering from sick headaches, disordered liver, dyspepsia, or constipation, you can get quick relief by a change of diet, by reforming your habit of hasty eating, by regulating the amount of rest or exercise, and by depending on the True L. F. Atwood's Medicine to relieve you of other disturbing symptoms. You can insure your health against sickness at little expense by systematic use of this old and reliable household remedy. It has helped thousands and is a household remedy today in hundreds of homes. Large bottle, small dose, thirty-five cents at any dealer's. Sample free for the asking. "L. F." Although it is February and Mid-Winter it is bright Springtime within our Store.

Nearly every department is now brilliant with fresh new merchandise. Hundreds of pieces of new cotton fabrics, linen fabrics, woolens and silks are here. The very choicest of late productions for this season and the Spring need that is supplied now will be chosen from our FIRST SELECTIONS. Styles, patterns, colorings that are to be in favor and difficult to procure later in the season.

There are many reasons why the Wash Goods department should have early attention.

Bates Ginghams and Other Good makes including Percales in great new assortment are furnishing one of the many reasons.

These Ginghams and Percales have no superior for the serviceable cotton dress. They are perfectly fast color.

Those who are unable to visit the Store now and see these ginghams and percales, should send for samples.

One of the many reasons for an early visit to this department we would mention the following new fabrics now having prominent showing.

COTTON FOULARDS. For all practical purposes these foulards are more serviceable than materials costing double the price asked. They have the appearance of real silk and possess excellent wearing qualities. Shown in an assortment of printed designs in fashionable colors. 29 inches wide, price 15 cents per yard.

SILK FOULARDS. A beautiful soft sheer fabric with white spot effect on dark ground of navy blue, heliotrope, tan, gray, and light blue. 26 inches wide, a 50 cent value. Priced 29 cents per yard.

We Solicit your Mail Orders and wish to impress upon our customers who anticipate ordering goods by mail, that most careful and prompt attention is given each order received, filling each order just as carefully and scrupulously as though attending you in person. We pay express charges on all orders of merchandise at regular price amounting to $5.00 and over.
